Many children suffer from Rheumatic Fever because a sore throat is left untreated. A sore throat, no coughing and no runny nose are only some of the symptoms that could lead to this disease. If not treated, a sore throat can result in serious damage to your child's heart. This can sometimes end in surgery or even worse, death. If your children are experiencing any of these symptoms take them to your local nurse, clinic or doctor for a simple and inexpensive penicillin injection. You could save their lives.
